Q&A with August Russo:

How did you learn about corporate real estate as a career option?

I had the pleasure of learning about corporate real estate by accidentally stumbling into a CoreNet Global event for MBA's during my freshman year of undergrad. I was finishing up studying at the library and was just a famished college kid who smelt pizza emanating from an events room. I walked into the room when the meeting was just starting, took a seat in the back (two slices of pizza in hand) and began to listen to corporate real estate professionals (some of whom I now have the pleasure of calling mentors) describe what corporate real estate is and what they did for a career. That was the start of a journey I have embarked on in my professional life where I am always engaged, in some way, with real estate.

Why might you choose corporate real estate for your career?

I have chosen corporate real estate due to it being a fascinating, fulfilling, and ever-evolving profession.
